

Newling Family tree

Newlings were a family of threshing machinists who went around the farms threshing the corn from 1850s, to at least 1911. Until 1916 in Kellys directory as machinists but from 1922-29 in Kelly's they were recorded as farmers.

Cambridge Chronicle: 24 May 1895 Inquest Carpenter's Arms, Haslingfield into death of un-named child of Edward Newling, a labourer, of haslingfield.
 Elizabeth Newling, grandmother of the child, said child died last Friday-been small & weak, fed on condensed milk; mother paid every attention, father lately in full employment; plenty of food in house; Surgeon said child badly nourished, emaciated, died of starvation from either insufficient quantity or bad quality of food.
